

Jamie Reed, Founder – Renewal Consulting

Jamie Reed, founder of Renewal Consulting and its companion website, www.renewalconsulting.com, helps women regroup, renew and reinvent themselves before, during and after divorce. Jamie created Renewal Consulting after she was unable to find information to guide her through the end of her own marriage. She realized this was an unmet need and built an online source for women seeking support as they experience the phases of divorce.

Prior to launching Renewal Consulting, Jamie was a financial analyst, project manager and strategic planner. After a career transition, she opened Jamie Reed Consulting and worked with the non-profit sector of Wayne, NJ. Soon after, she found herself not only in the midst of her own divorce, but also frustrated about the lack of resources for women. As a result, Jamie combined her business knowledge with her entrepreneurial spirit and Renewal Consulting was born.

Through Renewal Consulting and her coaching practice, Jamie helps divorcing women through life and relationship transitions, facing finances, finding their life's purpose, effective co-parenting and mastering communication. Her work includes speaking, writing, and leading seminars and workshops in critical areas relating to divorce. Jamie believes that every woman deserves to be the champion of her own destiny and live an extraordinary life.

When Jamie is not devoting time to her two sons or her businesses, she is a contributing expert for Smart Women's Coaching and producer of events for the 2008 Momference Series. Jamie is also a member of the International Federation of Coaches and sits on the advisory board of the Life Purpose Institute.